

EAMES HAS RIVAL FOR PRESIDENCY

Is Re-Elected, However, by the Architects

FRICITION AT INSTITUTE

"Independents" Charge Unfairness and Force Placing of Two Tickets in the Field.

The hitherto placid waters of the last session of the thirty-eighth annual convention of the American Institute of Architects at the Arlington Hotel became decidedly ruffled this morning over the question of an election of officers.

Politics were in evidence, say certain "Independents," and the latter compelled the committee on nominations to allow the nomination of an independent ticket, which was, however, subsequently defeated.

An undercurrent of ill feeling has existed since the beginning of the convention because of a contest made by the elements in control upon the Brooklyn delegates, and the latter decided to make war. Nominations had been decided upon by those in control, who had heard that there might be a contest.

The Regular Ticket.

The regular ticket consisted of W. G. Eames, for re-election as president; Al. Stone, first vice president; Cass Gilbert, second vice president; Glen Brown, secretary and treasurer; and W. A. Boring, J. M. Donaldson, F. M. Day, E. V. Seeler, J. C. Hornblower, and S. S. Bemans, for directors, and Robert Stead and J. G. Hill as auditors.

The "Independents" quietly nominated Robert S. Peabody, of Boston, for president, S. S. Bemans, for first vice president, and A. O. Elzner for director in place of Mr. Donaldson.

The regulars announced last night that the session would be opened at 11 o'clock this morning, when the nominating committee would report. Instead the regulars called the convention to order at 10:45 and immediately announced the regular nominations, and then declared all nominations closed.

Charges of Unfairness.

At 11 o'clock the independents appeared, and received the shock of their lives when they heard what had been done. William T. Hall, of Brooklyn, charged unfairness and offered a resolution that the report of the committee on nominations be reconsidered and that the name of Mr. Peabody and the other independents be placed upon the lists of candidates.

It is stated that McCauly called on Juror Shaw twice. The juror was not found at home and a message was left for him to call on McCauly. This he did and it is alleged McCauly attempted to unlawfully influence him by stating a case was coming on for trial in the court in which he, Shaw, was serving as a juror, "in which a railroad company was trying to down a man and that he desired to talk to Shaw about the case."

Similar charges were made in regard to the other candidates, but in each case, Juror Shaw asserted that he had the consent of all independent candidates, and that the assertions to the contrary were untrue. Voting was then begun with much clamoring.

Thomas Kimball Challenged.

The voting went on until Thomas R. Kimball, of Washington, appeared as a delegate-at-large and attempted to cast his ballot. He was challenged because he happened to be a member of one chapter while representing another. The convention allowed him to vote.

Other matters were then taken up. The convention declined to take a recess, so the photographer could picture the body in session, pleading lack of time.

Committee reports were then taken up. Joseph C. Hornblower told of the results of the congress of architects at Madrid last year and proposed Ricardo Valquez y Bosco, of Madrid, as an honorary member, and Jose Urtoste y Valada, Luis Cabello y Lapiedra, and Enrique Repulle y Larra as corresponding members. They were elected.

A large white screen had been raised at one end of the hall, and from behind slides the masterpieces of the men who were to be elected were shown. These pictures displayed a number of famous structures.

The question of attempting to obtain legislation for licensing architects was laid upon the table and the results of the balloting were announced.

Result of Election.

W. S. Eames was re-elected president, receiving fifty-eight votes to Robert S. Peabody's twelve.

Alfred Stone was re-elected first vice president by sixty-five votes, and the remainder of the regular ballot also won by large pluralities.

Governor Atterbury, Henry F. Bligh, Alfred B. Harlow, Irving K. Pond, and C. B. J. Snyder were elected fellows of the institute.

Pierre Jerome Honore, Daumet was elected an honorary member, and Henri Devane, of France, were elected corresponding members.

INDICTMENTS REPORTED BY THE GRAND JURY

Indictments were reported today by the grand jury against the following named persons, for the offenses mentioned:

Florida Brown and Washington Jones, housebreaking.

Frederick Perkins, housebreaking.

Harvey Wells and Nathan T. Sinn, larceny.

Harry E. Evans and Joseph Thomas, robbery.

John Allen, alias Spicer Allen, robbery.

Charles Carpenter, robbery.

William Howard, assault with a dangerous weapon.

The jury ignored the charge of housebreaking made against Arthur Briscoe and James Hill.

NEGRESS BADLY INJURED BY UNKNOWN BICYCLIST

Knocked down by a bicycle last night near Third and E streets southwest, Maggie Schaffer, a negress, forty years old, was severely injured about the body and taken to the Emergency Hospital.

Among other injuries which she received was a broken collarbone and a painful scalp wound. Physicians at the hospital said she was in a serious condition today.

Police of the Fourth precinct station are endeavoring to establish the identity of the unknown cyclist.

Will Have to Discard Her Uniform of Gray

Mrs. Hallie F. Lynch Fails to Convince Superintendent Spilman That Her Dismissal Was Due to Politics.

"There were four men, all politicians, against one woman, and, of course, they got my job," said Mrs. Hallie F. Lynch, the rural free delivery carrier on route No. 4, at Elmer, N. J., after she had held a lengthy conference this morning with William R. Spilman, superintendent of rural free delivery, in regard to her removal from office.

Mrs. Lynch received her notice yesterday, and caught the first train for Washington. Her trip availed her nothing, however, for Mr. Spilman told her, gently, but firmly, that he could not reconsider his action. "Insubordination and inefficiency" are the causes assigned for her dismissal.

When Mrs. Lynch came into the Post-office Department this morning, clad in the regulation gray uniform and cap of the postal service—the only difference being the substitution of a skirt for a pair of trousers—she went straight to Mr. Bristow's office. There she was received by C. Conrad, chief clerk to the Fourth Assistant, who referred her to Mr. Spilman.

Told Him Her Troubles.

Locating the office of the superintendent of rural free delivery, Mrs. Lynch took a seat by his desk and told him all her troubles. Mr. Spilman was busy and showed an inclination to cut short the interview. This had no effect on Mrs. Lynch, who had come to stay.

She told Mr. Spilman that she had done good work as a carrier and that she was a member of the Post-office Department. She said she was efficient and that she was a good worker. Mr. Spilman replied that the case had been referred to the board.

BENJAMIN MCCAULY CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT

Must Show Cause Why He Should Not Be Punished for Alleged Bribery of Juror.

Benjamin F. McCauly was today charged with contempt of court on the affidavit of Assistant District Attorney James S. Easby-Smith, who says he is informed and believes the accused, "with the corrupt and unlawful design and purpose" attempted to influence Benjamin F. Shaw, a juror in the case of Samuel Gassenheimer, tried in Criminal Court No. 1 for receiving embezzled property.

It is stated that McCauly called on Juror Shaw twice. The juror was not found at home and a message was left for him to call on McCauly. This he did and it is alleged McCauly attempted to unlawfully influence him by stating a case was coming on for trial in the court in which he, Shaw, was serving as a juror, "in which a railroad company was trying to down a man and that he desired to talk to Shaw about the case."

Similar charges were made in regard to the other candidates, but in each case, Juror Shaw asserted that he had the consent of all independent candidates, and that the assertions to the contrary were untrue. Voting was then begun with much clamoring.

been thoroughly investigated and, in sustaining the charges, he was acting upon the report of postoffice inspectors. As she came out of Mr. Spilman's room Mrs. Lynch was met by several newspaper men. Asked if she would be reinstated, she replied:

"No, I am fired."

"What was the cause of your dismissal?" she was asked.

"Absolutely nothing except that Joe Mahew, a politician up there, wanted my place for one of his friends. Three other politicians stood in with him on it and they were political workers and I wasn't. I attended to my work and had lots of friends on my route, but they were all farmers, who stood no show with the politicians. I guess I'll have to take the train back to New Jersey and find something else to do."

Did Not Show White Feather.

Mrs. Lynch did not betray the slightest sign of the white feather. She laughed over the loss of her position, although she admitted it meant a great deal to her. An effort was made to have her photograph taken in her uniform, but she refused.

"Oh, no," she said, laughing. "Don't let's do that. Anyhow, this uniform isn't any more. I haven't got the right to wear it."

Looking at her watch and seeing she was late, she hurried to catch the 11:30 train. Mrs. Lynch waved a good-bye to the newspaper men, and ran for the elevator.

Takes Nerve to Prosecute.

Referring to the popular disapproval of such prosecutions, witness said it would take "nerve" to institute such proceedings.

"Why would it take 'nerve' to prosecute a violator of the law," quickly inquired Chairman Burrows.

"The people of Utah," replied witness, slowly, "are sick and tired of polygamy. They want to wipe it out and put it under their feet. But when it comes to stirring things up and sending a man to the penitentiary, they think that perhaps it is best not to do so. The people in general do not object to men living in polygamy so much as they would object to men entering into new polygamous marriages."

"Do you not think such violations should be stopped?" continued Mr. Burrows.

INDIANS MAY NOT BUY POISONOUS MEDICINES

Redmen Bought Aconite, Drank It for Booze, and One Is Dead.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs Francis E. Leupp has issued an order to agents in the West, which may in the future prevent traders from poisoning any more Indians.

The order was issued because the trader at Norton, Kan., in the Kickapoo reservation, sold Thomas Charging Eagle a bottle of datura of aconite, with which he killed himself and came very near murdering Two Eagle, Convict Boy and Frank Spotted Eagle, convicts.

It was red medicine, to the Aborigines, who drank the stuff in a pall of water. It tasted like real old whisky to them.

The trader charged they wanted it for use in fever.

Thomas Charging Eagle was found dead in his tepee. The others were picked up unconscious in various parts of the Indian village.

Word of the tragedy reached Mr. Leupp today and he sent out the order calling upon Indian agents to send to Washington at once lists of medicines carried in stock by the traders. Listing that poisons be labeled with skull and crossbones, and be sold only under Government authority.

HABIT'S CHAIN

Certain Habits Unconsciously Formed and Hard to Break.

An ingenious philosopher estimates that the amount of will power necessary to break a life-long habit would, if it could be transformed, lift a weight of many tons.

It sometimes requires a higher degree of heroism to break the chains of a pernicious habit than to lead a forlorn hope in a bloody battle. A lady writes from an Indiana town:

"From my earliest childhood I was a lover of coffee. Before I was out of my teens I was a miserable dyspeptic, suffering terribly at times with my stomach."

"I was convinced that it was coffee that was causing the trouble, and yet I could not deny myself a cup for breakfast. At the age of 36 I was in very poor health. Indeed, my sister told me I was in danger of becoming a coffee drunkard."

"But I never could give up drinking coffee for breakfast, although it kept me constantly ill, until I tried Postum. I learned to make it properly according to directions, and now we can hardly do without Postum for breakfast, and care nothing at all for coffee."

"I am no longer troubled with dyspepsia, do not have spells of suffering with my stomach that used to trouble me so when I drank coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

its origin, so read it, and made comments upon it, as he proceeded.

Utah District Judges.

He told at length of the district judges in Utah, who they are, and what salaries they draw.

"There are a Mormon in the first district, in the second, a Gentile; third, three Gentiles and four Mormons (Salt Lake City); fourth, Mormon; fifth, Mormon; sixth, Mormon; seventh, Mormon."

This showing of five Mormons and only one Gentile in the portion of the State outside Salt Lake City seemed to surprise several Senators.

"Fifty-three thousand nine hundred dollars is the aggregate Mormon salaries, or $1,400 more salary than the Gentiles," continued witness. "The Mormons have 90 per cent of the population in Salt Lake City. It is hard to tell whether the Mormons or the Gentiles prevail, as they do not divide on political lines."

Witness told of a New York newspaper having sent a representative to Salt Lake City to shake up the Mormons a bit.

Attorney Worthington asked witness what he meant by the reference.

A Slap at Owen.

Witness said he referred to men who came to Utah, sought out people who were living in polygamous relations, and brought prosecutions. The people of Utah did not like this outside interference and the consideration of the "Evans bill" ensued. The reference to the New York newspaper's representative was a thrust at Investigator Charles M. Owen, now the agent of the protestants.

My Offer to Women A Dollar's Worth Free

You deposit nothing. You risk nothing. You promise nothing. There is nothing to pay either now or later. I want every woman, everywhere, who has not used my remedy to make this test.

For mine is no ordinary remedy. It represents thirty years of experiment—thirty years at bedside—in laboratories—at hospitals. Thirty years of the richest experience a physician can have. I tell below wherein Dr. Shoop's Restorative differs, radically, from other medicines.

I want no reference, no security. The poor have the same opportunity as the rich. To one and all I say "Merely write and ask." Simply say that you have never tried my remedy—for I must limit my offer to strangers—those who have used Dr. Shoop's Restorative need no additional evidence of its worth. I will send you an order on your druggist. He will give you free, the full dollar package.

Inside Nerves!

Only one woman in 35 has perfect health. And almost all womanly sickness can be traced to a common cause—the nerves are weak. Not the nerves you ordinarily think about—not the nerves that govern your movements and your thoughts.

But the nerves that, unguided and unknown, night and day, keep your heart in a constant state of tension, that regulate the liver—operate the digestive apparatus—on which all the vital functions depend.

These are the nerves that wear out and break down.

It does no good to treat the ailing organ—the irregular heart—the disordered liver—the rebellious stomach—the deranged kidneys. They are not to blame. But go back to the nerves that control them. There you will find the seat of the trouble.

There is nothing new about this—nothing that a physician would dispute. But it remained for Dr. Shoop to apply this knowledge to put it to practical use. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the result of a quarter century of endeavor along this very line. It does the organ or cures the pain—side nerve—the power nerve—and builds it up again—restores it to its normal state—that is the end of womanly weakness.
